This seminar will examine the unities and diversities of East Asia from earliest times to the end of World War II and pay particular attention to the travails of the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Through the historic achievements and challenges that the East Asia region has faced, we can begin to understand this region’s leadership in the world today. This presentation is the first of two seminars on the East Asia region.

Dr. Edward Shultz is a professor in the Department of Asian Studies and Interim Dean of the School of Pacific and Asian Studies at the University of Hawai‘i at Mānoa. He received his BA in political science from Union College and holds a MA and PhD in history from the University of Hawai‘i at Mānoa. He has written several publications on the early history of the Korean peninsula. His most recent research focuses on the ancient East Asian kingdom of Koguryŏ, which was located in the northern and central parts of the Korean peninsula.
