Syllabus

INTRODUCTION:

Each day, our choices have consequences, creating new futures. The goals that we choose, the language we use, the music we listen to, the ways in which people choose their partners, changes in educational systems, the foods we eat, methods of water management—these topics and others will dramatically alter the possible futures of Asia and the Pacific.

The overall theme for the Wednesday Evening Seminar for the spring 2007 semester is “Creating Futures for Asia and the Pacific: Choices and Behaviors.” The purpose of the Wednesday Evening Seminar for the spring 2007 is to examine the effects of everyday choices utilizing a wide variety of topics and issues. We will approach these topics through lectures and panel discussions, as well as make regular use of small group discussions.

The underlying question of the Wednesday Evening Seminar for the spring semester is “How will our everyday choices impact the future of Asia and the Pacific?”

We will begin by focusing on methods for understanding how experiences and goals will affect the future through “Adventure Learning Choices that Affect the Future of Asia and the Pacific.” We will then turn to the role of language and communication as it affects three topics: “How Film is Changing Behaviors in the Pacific,” “The Future of Education Reform in Asia and the Pacific,” and "Asian Bodies, Pacific Bodies, Global Sounds: Globalization and the Circulation of Music." We will also address the implications of policy decisions on certain behaviors through “The Impact of Policies Regarding Children and Families in Asia.” We will end the semester by examining three essential aspects everyday life: “Indoor Pollution and the Ramifications for South and South-East Asia,” “Where Will We Find Water?” and “Sustainable Fusion Foods of the Future.” For Valentine’s Day, we will also look at how love has changed in the 21st century through “Are Love, Sex, and Marriage Being ‘Globalized’?”

COURSE OBJECTIVES

The overall goal of the East-West Center is to contribute to a peaceful, prosperous, and just Asia-Pacific community, by serving as a vigorous hub for cooperative research, education, and Dialogue on critical issues of common concern to the Asia-Pacific region and the United States. To reach this goal, facilitating understanding among the students of the United States, Asia and the Pacific who study together at the East-West Center is one of the Wednesday Evening Seminar’s most important endeavors. Thus, discussion of choices and behaviors that affect the future of Asia and the Pacific can lead to shared knowledge of common concerns.

Within this context, specific objectives will aid with communication and enhance the learning process. Nine objectives are listed in the schedule to clarify the educational process of the Wednesday Evening Seminar.

Course Requirements

Attendance and Participation: Students must attend all course meetings and participate in group discussions. If you are unable to attend a session, please contact Mendl Djunaidy (e-mail provided below). Coming to the Wednesday Evening Seminar should be a fun way to learn about the Asia-Pacific region!

Assignments and Readings: Each week the discussion groups will work together to create a 2-3 sentence summary of the Wednesday Evening Seminar experience for that week. The groups will then email this summary to Kha Nguyen (email provided below). Once compiled, each group will then be able to comment on these composite summaries. At the end of the semester a final version of these summaries will be posted on the East-West center website as a documented account of the Wednesday Evening Seminar activities.

In addition, some of the speakers may have articles or other materials for students. These documents may be sent over the East-West Center e-mail list. It is always wise to check the e-mail list for announcements!
