

ASIAN STUDIES DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM (ASDP)

23RD NATIONAL CONFERENCE

Asia Connections: Confluences and Contradictions

Portland, OR • March 2-4, 2017
Hilton Portland Downtown

Asia-related Sites & Activities in Portland

On Thursday afternoon, March 2nd, there is a scheduled tour of the Lan Su Chinese Garden (approximately 2:30 - more information forthcoming on the conference page)

Oregon Nikkei Legacy Center

Japanese American History Museum located in Old Town District, where Japantown thrived prior to the internment of Japanese Americans in World War II.

Chinatown Historic District

Portland's oldest neighborhood is an old-style Chinatown with an eclectic mix of restaurants, lunch spots, and tea shops in centuries-old brick buildings.

Portland Japanese Garden

5.5 acres with five styles of Japanese Gardens, opened in 1967. Journal of Japanese Gardening ranked it 2nd out of 300 public Japanese gardens outside Japan.

Lan Su Classical Chinese Garden

Walled compound on a full city block; influenced by Ming Dynasty gardens of Suzhou, from where the wood and designers come. One of most authentic outside of China.

Portland Art Museum

Renowned for its Asian collection, over 4,000 objects are housed in an entire wing of six galleries dedicated to the arts of China, Japan, Korea and India.

Powell's City of Books

In the world's largest bookstore, participants can browse the largest Asian Studies selection anywhere, plus sections for their own academic disciplines.

