

Billma Peter was crowned Miss Marshall Islands in October 2019. Since then, she has served as a Cultural Ambassador for the Republic of the Marshall Islands, representing the country in formal ceremonies, advocating for volunteer and community work throughout the nation, and promoting local products, events, and history.

Ms. Peter holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Healthcare Administration from the University of Arizona and previously worked as an Operations Assistant Manager at Iora Primary Care in Sun City West, Arizona, and also as an intern at the Tucson Medical Center

Childrens' Clinic.

A passionate advocate for healthful living, education, and care, she has volunteered for several health-aligned charities and non-profits and is currently pursuing a Masters Degree in Health Administration. She looks forward to drawing on her academic and professional pursuits in the future to make an impact at home and throughout the Pacific.
