EAST - WEST CENTER
COLLABORATION • EXPERTISE • LEADERSHIP

September 1, 2012

Warm greetings from Peking University!

On behalf of Peking University, I would like to welcome all of you to Beida (the abbreviation of Peking University in Chinese) and I hope that your stay in Beijing is both rejuvenating and educational.

The collaboration between Beida and the East-West Center (EWC) dates back to decades ago. With strong support and great efforts from both sides, the collaboration have continued to grow and expand over the years, and now Beida and EWC have built long-term cooperation on programs in various fields. It promotes in-depth understanding and mutual respect by enhancing exchanges between the scholars and academic institutions of the two countries. We are very pleased to become the local host for the East-West Center Association Conference, and we look forward to meeting old friends and making new ones.

It's an exciting time for Beida as we continue to internationalize. Our University is confronting a time of many changes and we're encountering these changes during a time of larger global change. I am very glad to see that this year's conference topics touch on most fields where these changes are taking place. I firmly believe that our joint efforts will bring prosperity and happiness to the Asia-Pacific area. Beida will continue to meet and bring inspired people together in conferences like this, in order to ensure the University remains at the cutting edge of internationalization.

Finally, I'd like to thank each of you for attending our conference and bringing your expertise to our gathering. I wish you a pleasant stay in Beijing!

September 1, 2012

Dear East-West Center Alumni and Friends,

Welcome to the EWC/EWCA International Conference in Beijing. The 2012 international conference provides an opportunity to learn about the ongoing developments and issues in the Asia Pacific region, learn about new programs and projects at the East-West Center, and reconnect with friends and colleagues.

We wish to especially thank this year's conference committee and our partners at Peking University's Yingjie Exchange Center, who have worked hard to develop an interesting program around the theme "Community Building and Leadership in Asia Pacific." A special recognition is due the Beijing Alumni Chapter, who provided valuable input into the planning process as well. Alumni participation on panels, at poster sessions, and as active audience members will contribute to the overall success of the conference.

The East-West Center is now into its 52nd year. It's hard to believe that it was two years ago that we all gathered in Honolulu to celebrate the Center's Golden Jubilee. The energy and excitement that was generated in Hawai'i continues to inspire us as we move forward. We are continually bolstered by the enthusiasm, support and good wishes of our alumni, and hope that this year's conference will not only allow us to renew friendships, but inspire each of us to build new relationships.

Your support, in addition to the support of the US Congress, private donors, friends in the region, and a strong alumni network has enabled the East-West Center to further advance its mission. Our student program has nearly 600 students, which, despite budget challenges, is a higher number than in previous years. Since the Center was established in 1960, nearly 60,000 people have participated in EWC programs and many of them now hold positions of influence in their communities, their countries, and the world. This network of alumni is a critical element and indicator of the East-West Center's success.

We believe that the Center's mission of strengthening relations and understanding among the peoples and nations of Asia, the Pacific, and the United States is more vital than ever.

Your strong support encourages us to continue. Thank you and aloha,

Charles E. Morrison

Aloha kākou!

We are pleased to welcome you all on behalf of the East-West Center Association (EWCA), which is now 60,000 alumni strong.

Planning and organizing the conference over the past year has been both a labor of love and a great experience! The EWCA is especially appreciative of the close coordination and great working relationship with our colleagues at Peking University and with our own energetic staff at the Center. This event would not have been possible without the strong support of China's Vice Minister of Education Hao Ping (1991-93 EWC alumnus) and the kokua of the EWCA Chapter in Beijing. Mahalo to all.

We are pleased with the broad diversity of topics reflected in this year's conference. Not only are they relevant to the global community of the Twenty-First Century, but more importantly they are evidence of the world-wide human resources and leadership for excellence that a half-century of EWC culture has produced—namely ourselves! The conference validates the critical relevance and continuing importance of the Center for the present Asia-Pacific Century.

We are here to celebrate, learn, meet old friends, and make new ones. At the same time we encourage each of us to re-commit ourselves to support—and live—the vision of the Center. Finally, let us enjoy this opportunity to discover (or re-discover) the charms and challenges of our host city, Beijing!

Last year's "China Red Cross-Guo Meimei" scandal did severe damage to China's philanthropic sector. Behind the crisis of trust is the urgent need for innovation and reform, reflecting the rapid growth of philanthropy in China and the corresponding increase in expectations for the sector. New regulations on foundations and a charity law are under discussion by the State Council and the Ministry of Civil Affairs and being carefully observed. The China-US Strategic Philanthropy Partnership (CUSP) — launched in August, 2011 at an EWC Workshop — resulted in the formation of a CUSP Secretariat and five Working Groups, each co-chaired by a Chinese and a US expert, and focused on a key issue: Legal Framework, Standards & Accountability, Capacity Building, Social Enterprise, and Support Organizations.

Room 8
(2nd floor) Workshop
Community Building with Four Treasures: Chinese Ink, Brush, Xuan Paper, and Stone

Presentation by:

BARBARA BORNET STUMPH, Teacher, USA

Come enjoy our discussion of Chinese ink painting; we will have a demonstration. You can try to paint if you wish. You are welcome to attend our presentation on "Community Building" on the Internet among Chinese brush painters (CBP). We represent an Internet Forum on CBP of international artists who study ink painting with Chinese teachers abroad. Painting is deeply embedded in Chinese language and culture, as well as rooted in tradition. Chinese brush painting continues to be worthy of serious intellectual exploration; we thank all of our Chinese teachers who honor the creative process as we not only emulate past masters but also explore innovative artistic solutions.

Women in many parts of the Asia Pacific have made significant strides. In East Asia and the Pacific they have the highest average labor force participation (70%) and have made the most progress in the areas of health and education, with the enrollment of girls having caught up with that of boys in many countries. Despite considerable progress, gender disparities persist in political participation and access to economic opportunity. Women's empowerment is a key theme for international development agencies and the US State Department. Closing these gender gaps is critical to achieving equitable development. Based on their own professional achievements, the panelists will reflect on women and development in the Asia Pacific region.

Motivating Cambodian students to attend school will be achieved by introducing "El Sistema," the Venezuelan-style student orchestra. Mastering a musical instrument and playing in an orchestra fosters teamwork, a belief in something larger than oneself, and a sense of pride and accomplishment. Children actually look forward to attending school. Surprisingly, musical training also correlates with higher achievement in math and science. A student orchestra creates better educated and more constructively motivated citizens.

Room 8 (2nd floor) Nature Conservation in China: Balancing Protection and Development

Chair/Moderator: CAROL FOX, Director for Special Projects, East-West Center, USA and MERIL FUJIKI, Seminars Development Coordinator, East-West Center, USA

Panelists: China State Forestry Administration; The Nature Conservancy-China; and other conservation leaders

There are more than 2,500 nature reserves in China, covering 16.6 percent of the country's total land area — home to 85% of China's wildlife population, as well as thousands of rare plants and medicinal herbs. Some of the world's most biologically diverse ecosystems are in Yunnan Province, where The Nature Conservancy has been working with local, provincial and national agencies for the past 16 years to develop a model that balances effective conservation with much-needed economic development — a challenge faced by conservationists around the world. To strengthen leadership capacity for effective protected area management, nature reserve managers from Yunnan and other provinces in China have been participating in the China Protected Areas Leadership Alliance Project, a learning partnership between the China State Forestry Administration, TNC-China and the East-West Center. Since 2008, this project has brought together more than 350 Chinese and US protected area experts and government officials to share successful conservation management strategies, practices, tools and techniques.

EWC Distinguished Alumni Awards

This award honors former East-West Center participants for exceptional accomplishments in their professions and contributions to East-West relations and understanding. The award was established by an endowment fund donated by the late Dr. Dai-Ho Chun, former director of the Center's Institute of Technical Interchange.

Two outstanding alumni will receive the 2012 EWCA Distinguished Alumni Award:

Senen Bacani, Former Philippines Secretary of Agriculture under President Corazon Aquino, is currently the Chairman and President of the agri-business La Frutera, Inc., one of the top banana exporters in the Philippines. Previously, Bacani, who pursued an MBA from the University of Hawai'i while he was at the East-West Center from 1966-1968, had spent 20 years in a successful career with Dole Food Company, including serving as Dole's country manager in Costa Rica and the Philippines. After leaving Aquino's administration, he spearheaded the establishment of the first large-scale banana plantation in the autonomous region of Muslim Mindanao, helping to bring jobs and stability to the war-torn region in his belief that "peace and development go together." Employing more than 1,800 people, roughly 90 percent of whom are Muslims and 10 percent are Christians, Bacani and his business partners envisioned La Frutera as a model of how Christians and Muslims can work together. In 2006 he was named Entrepreneur of the Year by SGV Ernst & Young.

Amanda Ellis, who pursued a PhD in Political Science while she was at EWC from 1986-1989, is currently New Zealand's Deputy Secretary of Foreign Affairs and Trade in charge of international development. Before returning to the ministry, where she had earlier been in the Foreign Service at postings in Paris, the Pacific and Asia, Ellis worked as the Lead Specialist for Gender and Development for the World Bank, where she played a vital role in economically empowering women in an impressive number of the world's developing countries. "It's fascinating how things I was involved with at the Center in my early career, how these connections have been maintained and strengthened to become a theme in my professional life," remarked Ellis.

East-West Center Association Presidential Recognition Award

The newly established East-West Center Association Presidential Recognition Award will be given by outgoing EWCA President Ricardo Trimillos to tireless volunteer (and 1962-64 alumna) Itsuko Suzuki. Itsuko established the Association's Mentoring Program 10 years ago and has been the key force behind the program's success. In addition to her leadership of the Mentoring Program, which has involved hundreds of EWC students and professionals from the Honolulu community, she has served on the EWCA-Hawai'i Chapter Board for many years. Her dedication and commitment to the EWC is an inspiration to other alumni volunteers. Selected as one of two grantees out of 2,000 applicants from Japan, Itsuko, going against cultural norms for Japanese women at that time, came to the Center in 1962 from Tokyo as a graduate student in Social Work, a field not offered at the graduate level in Japan in the '60s. After receiving her degree, she worked for the Japanese Red Cross and the International Social Service in Tokyo and eventually returned to Hawai'i and served for 30 years as a medical social worker and diagnostic clinic coordinator for the Hawai'i State Department of Health. Recognizing how fortunate she was to receive the EWC Scholarship and how it shaped the course of her life, she felt moved to give back to the East-West Center community and share the benefits she has received with the next generation of students.

EWCA Outstanding Volunteer Awards

This award recognizes outstanding alumni volunteers who have provided significant contributions to the programs and activities of the East-West Center Association. Three individuals will receive the 2012 EWCA Outstanding Volunteer Award:

Lyn Flanigan co-chaired the EWC/EWCA 50th Anniversary Conference in 2010 and served as President of the EWCA Executive Board from 2009-2012 and as a Board member from 2004-2010. She came to the East-West Center from Indiana as an Asian Studies major in the 1960s (Institute for Student Interchange 1965-1968).

After obtaining her master's degree, Lyn lived in Asia for several years and then returned to the Center where she worked as a program officer for 12 years. During this time, which she calls her "most memorable period at the Center," she and her family hosted many EWC students in their home. While working, she obtained her law degree at the University of Hawai'i and then worked as an attorney in Honolulu. She was appointed to the EWC Board of Governors in 1992 during a time of transition. During her nine years on the Board she focused on reinvigorating alumni relations. Professionally, Flanigan recently served for eight years as executive director of the 7,000-member Hawai'i State Bar Association.

Larry Foster, an EWC alumnus from 1978-1981 in the Culture Learning Program, has given back to the East-West Center community in many ways over the years having served as President of the East-West Center Alumni Association Executive Board from 2005-2009, as an Ex-Officio member of East-West Center Board of Governors, and as member on the Planning Committees for the International Conferences held in Vietnam (2006) and Bali (2008). Professionally, he served as Dean of the University of Hawai'i at Mānoa's William S. Richardson School of Law from 1995-2003. Before obtaining his legal education at the U.H. Law School as an East-West Center grantee, Larry received a PhD in Chinese Studies and taught Chinese language at the University of Hawai'i and the University of Washington. He has been active in law reform issues in Japan, China and the Pacific and serves as a Legal Advisor to the American Chamber of Commerce in Shanghai and as an elected member of the Governing Council of the Inter-Pacific Bar Association.

Nasti Reksodiputro, Communications liaison for the EWCA-Jakarta Chapter, was one of the co-chairs of the organizing committee for the EWC/EWCA International Conference in Bali in 2008. An EWC grantee in the early 1960s (Institute for Student Interchange 1962-64), she returned to Indonesia with a degree in Teaching English as a Second Language. During her years at the Center, she experienced the sharing, support and cooperation among the students from very diverse countries and decided to utilize those elements to create a library on wheels for children. She founded Yayasan Pustaka Kelana (the Wandering Books Foundation), dedicated to increasing children's access to books, fostering literacy, and spreading the joy of reading in her country. After retiring from the University of Indonesia, Reksodiputro managed to collect some 3,000 books. The bookmobile took to the streets of Jakarta in 1996. Now, Pustaka Kelana has three bookmobiles and a stationery reading room in East Jakarta. With increasing support, the library continues to expand and branch out. Thousands of children across the city regularly use the foundation's libraries. The bookmobiles visit schools and neighborhoods, targeting children in the middle- to lower-income bracket. Reksodiputro is also an active member of a Jakarta-based foundation for dyslexic children.

EWCA Outstanding Chapter Awards

This award recognizes outstanding EWCA Chapters which have provided significant contributions to the goals and programs of EWCA and support of the mission of the East-West Center. The 2012 EWCA Outstanding Chapter Awards will be given to EWCA alumni chapters in:

Okinawa, Japan – The Okinawa chapter has demonstrated ongoing strong support to the students of the EWC through the chapter's EWCA Okinawa Alumni Scholarship Foundation. The chapter also recently published a book of EWC alumni essays titled Bridge of Rainbows Linking East & West to commemorate the East-West Center's 50th anniversary.

Brisbane, Australia – The Brisbane chapter engaged in extensive community outreach activities including volunteer work with the Australian Red Cross in support of relief and recovery efforts for the people affected by the devastating floods in Queensland. The chapter has also collaborated with the EWC alumni chapter in Nepal by financially supporting the educational goals of two economically disadvantaged Nepalese students.

East-West Center Association (EWCA) Alumni Scholarship Fund

The East-West Center Association (EWCA) began awarding Alumni Scholarships in 2002 to make East-West Center's transformational educational programs accessible to all qualified students, regardless of their economic resources. Scholarships are awarded to graduate degree students based on academic excellence, financial need, leadership potential, and a strong commitment to community service and involvement with EWCA. These stand-alone scholarships have helped to increase the number of EWC students, and provide supplemental funding to graduate degree fellows who need additional support for travel to the Center and for other personal expenses beyond the graduate degree fellowship.

EWCA Alumni Scholarships are created from three sources of funds:

- Contributions to the EWC Foundation's annual campaign,
- Investment income from the Alumni Endowment Fund, and
- Proceeds from the Silent Auction and International Bazaar at the annual EWC dinner.

ALUMNI ANNUAL SCHOLARSHIP FUND

All alumni and friends of the EWC are welcome to designate their gifts donated during the annual campaign to the Alumni Annual Scholarship Fund. Because this is not an endowment, gifts to the fund are available for immediate use.

ALUMNI ENDOWMENT FUND

EWCA alumni created the Alumni Endowment Fund as a legacy to help future generations of students share the EWC experience. Contributions can be made in the form of cash, bequest/trust, appreciated securities, or life insurance. This fund includes all gifts from alumni who designate their donations to the endowment. Funds are placed in the EWC Foundation's Endowment Fund, and held in perpetuity. Income from the investment of these funds is used to fund scholarships.

INVESTING IN THE FUTURE: SCHOLARSHIPS CHANGE LIVES

Your gift makes a real difference in the lives of East-West Center students to prepare them for leadership in the Asia Pacific region. This year's EWCA Alumni Scholar Award recipients are Zaya Dondov (Mongolia), Vinogiri Krishnan (Malaysia), Barnabas Cordell Seyler (USA), Jeny Shrestha (Nepal) and Phoumy Sok (Cambodia).

Thanks to the generosity of alumni and community donors, the EWC Association Alumni Scholarship Fund has been able to distribute over $236,000 so that 83 students from 19 countries could participate in EWC education programs.

Please make your gift today by mailing your gift or using our secure website at EastWestCenter.org/donatenow. You can designate your donation to the Annual Fund for Student Scholarships or Alumni Endowment Fund for Student Scholarships.

You can also have your financial institution transfer (quarterly) payments directly from your checking account to EWC (US bank accounts only). Sign up by contacting the EWC Foundation at 808.944.7143 or by email Foundation@EastWestCenter.org to request the authorization form or going to the EWC Foundation website EastWestCenter.org/support-the-ewc.

A gift of any size directly supports East-West Center students and programs.

HONOR ROLL OF DONORS

On behalf of the East-West Center, we would like to thank our donors who have generously contributed to the East-West Center Association (EWCA) Alumni Annual Scholarship Fund and Alumni Endowment Fund for Student Scholarships from inception to July 2012.

EWCInfo@EastWestCenter.org

The East-West Center promotes better relations and understanding among the people and nations of the United States, Asia and the Pacific through cooperative study, research and dialogue. Established by the US Congress in 1960, the Center serves as a resource for information and analysis on critical issues of common concern, bringing people together to exchange views, build expertise and develop policy options.

Officially known as the Center for Cultural and Technical Interchange between East and West, the Center is a US-based institution for public diplomacy with international governance, staffing, students and participants.

The Center is an independent, public, nonprofit organization with funding from the US government, and additional support provided by private agencies, individuals, foundations, corporations and governments in the region.

The Center's 21-acre Honolulu campus, adjacent to the University of Hawai'i at Mānoa, is located midway between Asia and the US mainland and features research, residential and international conference facilities. The Center's Washington, D.C. office focuses on preparing the United States for an era of growing Asia Pacific prominence.
