Dear Friends,

Welcome to Okinawa! All of the EWCA Okinawa Chapter members are delighted you have joined us here for the East-West Center alumni conference. Your presence is another reminder that we are living in an age of globalization.

Our conference theme is Developing a Peaceful and Sustainable Asia Pacific Community. More than a hundred panelists will offer research and observations related to this theme. As you may discover, this theme is very much related to the Okinawan philosophy of life.

We are deeply thankful to President Charles E. Morrison, Ms. Noreen Tanouye and other EWC/EWCA staff members for their kind advice and support in making our dream of hosting the conference a reality.

We are also very grateful to Okinawa Prefectural Governor, Hirokazu Nakaima, and the prefectural officials for their generous support. We could not have organized the conference we imagined without the additional support of other companies, colleges and media in Okinawa, the American Consulate General Naha, and the Naha City Government. We appreciate the Tokyo Chapter’s great support and Kansai Chapter’s cooperation. The names of conference supporters are listed in the program.

Okinawa has a unique history, environment and philosophy of life. Some of that uniqueness will be evident if you join the Half-Day Tour to the Shuri Castle and Peace Memorial Park on the second day and optional post conference tours.

Please enjoy the conference, the Okinawa experience, and the hospitality of all those who have anticipated your arrival for so many months!

Keiko Yamazato
Conference Co-chair / President, EWCA Okinawa Chapter

Kem Lowry
Conference Co-chair
Dear East-West Center Alumni and Friends,

Welcome to the EWC/EWCA International Conference in Okinawa. The 2014 international conference provides an opportunity to learn about the ongoing developments and issues in the Asia Pacific region, hear about new programs and projects at the East-West Center, and reconnect with friends and colleagues.

We wish to express our gratitude to this year’s conference committee members, who have given much thought and time toward developing a dynamic program around the theme of “Developing a Peaceful and Sustainable Asia Pacific Community.” Special recognition is also due the Okinawa Alumni Chapter members, who have worked tirelessly and contributed generously toward making the conference a success. Alumni participation on panels, at poster sessions, and as active audience members will contribute to the overall success of the conference.

We are most grateful as well for the support of the Okinawa Prefectural Government, gold sponsor Naha City and the many other generous sponsors and supporters who have contributed to this gathering.

With the continually growing importance and dynamism of the Asia Pacific region, the core mission of the East-West Center — promoting deeper understanding and relations among the peoples and nations of the region — is more relevant than ever. We are continually energized by the enthusiasm, support and good wishes of our participants and alumni, and hope that this year’s conference will not only allow us to renew friendships, but inspire each of us to build new relationships.

The most important product of the East-West Center is our more than 62,000 alumni, many of whom now hold positions of influence in their communities, their countries, and the world. The work and network of alumni are critical indicators of the Center’s success. This conference itself is a reflection of that key role; no other U.S.-based organization holds regular, biennial alumni conferences such as this in the Asia Pacific region, where hundreds of former participants gather, along with friends and interested community members. Your support, in addition to the support of the U.S. Congress, private donors, friends in the region and a strong alumni network, has enabled the East-West Center to continue to advance its mission.

For this, as we say in Hawai‘i, mahalo nui loa — thank you so very much.

Charles E. Morrison
President, East-West Center

R. (Rick) Brian Tsujimura
Chairman, Board of Governors

The East-West Center promotes better relations and understanding among the people and nations of the United States, Asia, and the Pacific through cooperative study, research, and dialogue. Established by the US Congress in 1960, the Center serves as a resource for information and analysis on critical issues of common concern, bringing people together to exchange views, build expertise, and develop policy options.
Aloha Kakou,

We look forward to renewing old friendship and making new ones as we gather for this year’s East-West Center alumni conference in Naha, Okinawa. For many of us, this will be our first visit to Japan’s southern islands and we look forward to the wonderful hospitality associated with Okinawa and its people.

To successfully host a conference on this scale requires the work of many people. We want to especially thank the conference host, EWCA Okinawa Chapter, led by Keiko Yamazato and many others for their planning that has been ongoing for over a year. In Hawai‘i, we note with appreciation the co-chairmanship of Kem Lowry and the tireless efforts of the East-West Center staff and especially Noreen Tanouye.

With over 62,000 alumni world-wide, our Association remains vital and committed. We share the common bonds of living and studying in Hawai‘i and forwarding the spirit of aloha wherever we travel and work. The papers and presentations at this year’s conference offer a broad array of topics and provide an intriguing menu of choices for all. Through our interactions both during the conference and after hours, we can expect new insights into our global experiences and hopefully challenges that foster greater understanding and empathy within our academic village. The East-West Center remains a vital organization that perhaps better than most institutions fosters an environment in which people from around Asia and the Pacific can study, research, and express their opinions in an open academic environment. This shared vitality of inquiry will underpin all of our events over the too few days of our conference. We invite you to enjoy the discussions, renew old friendships, and continue to support the ideals of the East-West Center. Finally, we must not miss this wonderful opportunity to discover Okinawa and other parts of Japan.

Aloha e pumehana,

Edward (Ned) J. Shultz (1969-71)
East-West Center Association President

Nirendra Maske (1966-68)
East-West Center Association Chair

OKINAWA CULTURAL WORKSHOPS
Choose from five workshops offered. Limited space available. Participation for the workshop will be first-come, first-served basis.

Workshop 1: Shisa Face Pottery Making
(maximum number of participants: 40) | Waipio Room
In this workshop, you will learn how to make Shisa face with clay. Shisa is a mythical animal that protects people from evil, and many people in Okinawa put a pair of Shisa pottery on the entrance gate or the rooftop of a house as guardians. The face of your original Shisa can be fierce (more traditional), funny, or cute; so let loose your creativity! Your work will be sent to you upon request (baking and shipping fees not included).

Workshop 2: Okinawan-style Tea Ceremony (Buku-buku cha)
(maximum number of participants: 50) | Kaneohe Room
In this workshop, you will learn how to make Okinawan traditional tea “Buku-buku cha.” “Buku-buku” means bubbly in Japanese and refers to the white foam made by brisking up the mixture of roasted rice tea and jasmine tea. It used to be served when the Ryukyuan (Okinawan) court welcomed delegations from China. Since the white foam represents the bubble that a ship makes when it sails the peaceful ocean. buku-buku cha was also served to upper-class households before the departure of family members going on a sea voyage. We hope you will enjoy the taste of the tea and wish you a safe trip home!

Workshop 3: Okinawan-style Kimono Wearing
(maximum number of participants: 40) | Waipahu Room
In this workshop, you will learn how to wear Okinawan traditional kimono, namely Bingata and Kunji. Bingata, which used to be worn by royal and upper-class people in the past, is characterized with its vivid colors and its various dyeing methods Okinawa adopted from other Asian cultures including China, India and Indonesia among others. Meanwhile Kunji, which used to be worn by commoners, is made of Indigo-dyed woven cloth. Unlike Japanese kimono, both kimonos are not worn tightly to make it suitable for the warm weather in Okinawa. Please bring your own camera for those who wish to take souvenir photos!

Workshop 4: Okinawan-style Spontaneous Dance (kacha-shi-)
(maximum number of participants: 80) | Waikele Room
In this workshop, you will learn Okinawan-style spontaneous dance kacha-shi-. The name kacha-shi- (derived from an Okinawan word “kacha-sun” or to stir), is characterized by its hand (wrist) movements. In Okinawa, most ceremonies like weddings or longevity celebrations conclude with kacha-shi-, where everyone is invited to dance with a fast-paced sanshin (Okinawan three-string instrument) music. It is a joyous dance through which Okinawan people express their emotions. It will be a perfect preparation for the farewell/aloha banquet!

Workshop 5: Okinawan Three-String Instrument (Sanshin)
(maximum number of participants: 30) | Manoa Room
In this workshop, you will learn how to play the sanshin, a traditional Okinawan three-string instrument. Sanshin was introduced from China around the 14th century, and developed into its current form with the support from the Ryukyuan court. Sanshin is an essential part of Okinawan music; whether the refined classical court music or the lively folk music, the sound of sanshin still attracts many people in present-day Okinawa and beyond. You are welcome to join the workshop; it will be a great opportunity to find both the uniqueness of Okinawan music and the commonality with other music traditions!

12:30 pm – 1:30 pm
Lunch | Manza Ballroom

1:30 pm – 3:00 pm
CONCURRENT PANEL SESSIONS
Workshop: “Weaving the Tapestry of Cross-Cultural Understanding in Asia and Globally”’ | Kaneohe Room
CAROLINE C. LATHAM, Director, Medical English Education Program, Okinawa Prefecture Northern Area Hospitals, Okinawa, Japan
This presentation’s focus is on helping individuals who will work or study in international settings to develop cross-cultural sensitivity and communicative skills. The format is interactive, introducing a variety of activities and materials which have been successfully employed by the presenter for over 30 years, in groups of 20 to 200 individuals, training YFU students and university students and teachers from around Japan for overseas study, home stays or work. Participants will experience and see how the activities and materials can be efficacious and enjoyable in collaborative learning situations. The presenter will also give each participant a sizeable packet of materials, including workshop activities, suggestions for implementation and an extensive bibliography of useful resources and articles.

Today, in the global age, there are many kinds of issues related to territory, human rights, trade, foods, religions, culture, natural environments and so on in the Asia Pacific regions and societies. EWC has worked for a long time to achieve the best ideas and plans for these international issues and has provided many useful and valuable study and research programs. Members of EWCA have made their efforts to find the best solutions and to maintain peaceful states in the world. The main theme of the Okinawa conference is “Developing a Peaceful and Sustainable Asia Pacific Community.” Many participants at the Okinawa conference are expecting to accomplish a peaceful Asia Pacific Community. The purpose of the Panel Discussion is to discuss current world affairs and then exchange ideas among panelists and audiences to establish world peace through international communication and exchanges. This discussion will take part in two sessions:
“Spirits for Peace and Strategies for Peace Building” and “Idea of APCC (Asia Pacific Communication Center).”

<td>One significant event that International Baccalaureate (IB) Primary Years Programme (PYP) learners look forward to is the exhibition. The exhibition is a culminating activity in the IB Primary Years Programme, which provides students an opportunity to synthesize and apply their learning of previous years. It is an in-depth collaborative inquiry among the students that provide them with an opportunity to demonstrate independence and responsibility for their own learning. It provides an authentic process for assessing student understanding. During this class, we aim to see the connection and relationship of the class-designed exhibition unit. The students will discuss how their lines of inquiry are connected with the others by giving evidences that they have gathered throughout their summer vacation. The teacher will serve as a facilitator during the discussion. After finding the relationship, the students will be given the opportunity to reflect on their individual and class efforts on their journey to exhibition through self-assessment.</td>

Recent performances, exhibitions, seminars, festivals, and artists’ residencies organized and sponsored by the East-West Center are testament to the institution’s mandate to serve as a “Center for Cultural and Technical Interchange between East and West.” These cultural programs, rather than presenting “art for art’s sake,” enlighten the viewers, audience members, and seminar participants to the people and their values of the nations of the Asia Pacific region. The programs and residencies enrich the entire EWC community—particularly the current students—university students, and senior citizens. Recently emphasis has been placed on reaching out to Hawaii’s children, particularly at-risk youth. Recent projects have included Ainu Treasures, a Living Tradition of Northern Japan; Voices of Afghanistan, exquisite Indian Bollywood film costumes; Living Arts of Vanuatu; Lacquer Ware in Asia; Puppetry arts of Taiwan and China; Performing Arts of Korea; Peranakan (Straits Chinese) of SE Asia; an East-West Indian music fusion, and the very promising Asia Pacific Dance Festival. The session will be illustrated by numerous photographs, audio, and video examples.

PLENARY PANEL

The Contemporary East-West Center | Manza Ballroom
Chair/Moderator: KAREN KNUDSEN, Director, Office of External Affairs
MARY HAMMOND, Dean, Education Program
SAYAKA SAKUMA, Graduate Student and Obuchi Scholarship Recipient
KEETHE KOYANAGI, Co-chair, EWC Foundation Board of Directors

The East-West Center is approaching its 55th anniversary in 2015. Over the years the Center has educated thousands of students, produced policy-relevant research, developed future leaders, and promoted serious dialogue and understanding among the people and countries of Asia, the Pacific, the United States and beyond. The work of the Center has provided information to policy makers, educators, journalists, teachers and the community at large. While continuing to adhere to its founding mission and vision, the EWC has adapted to change, introduced new programs and expanded its reach to include the global community. This plenary will focus on the contemporary EWC and a look to the future.

“Social Capital and Nutrition/Health Transition in Postwar Okinawa”

MINORU TAKAKURA, Professor, School of Health Sciences, University of the Ryukyus, Okinawa, Japan
“Social Capital at School and Health-risk Behaviors Among Adolescents”

Recently social capital, particularly its effect on society and individual lives has been one of the major research foci in public health and other social sciences. In those disciplinary areas, case studies on Okinawa can be very fruitful. In this panel, each presenter will discuss the relationship between social capital and the social structure or human behavior in Okinawa and other local areas from the perspective of his/her specialized field. The topics include adolescents’ health risk behavior, life transition into adult social roles, social and cultural determinants on elders’ well-being, nutrition transition at the societal level, and economic inequality. Presentations will continue in a second session.

MAYCO SANTAILLA, Lecturer, Universiti Pendidikan Sultan Idris, Malaysia
“Seascapes and Soundscapes: Island Culture and Music Making in the Nusantar Region”

Present-day discussions of “cross-cultural” phenomena are usually de facto conversations about contemporary nation-states, a prevailing practice at the East-West Center as well. In the twenty-first century we should revisit this assumption, given recent events in various parts of the world—western China, eastern Ukraine, southern Japan, and eastern Indonesia, to name a few. Appropriate to the location of the 2014 conference and the island orientation of Hawai‘i itself, this panel looks at island locations and the performing arts they generate. Further it explores possibilities of identifying shared features in the performing arts that extend beyond present and past political boundaries and suggests that some such features might be directly related to a physical island environment.

AMEFIL AGBAYANI, Director, Student Equity, Excellence and Diversity (SEED), Office of Student Affairs, University of Hawai’i at Mānoa, United States
“Who Are and What Are Higher Educational Issues Facing Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders (AAPI) in the US?”

This session focuses on the stereotypes and misconceptions, as well as recent initiatives to address the issues of Asian Americans/Pacific Islanders (AAPIs) diversity, rapid growth, and inequality in US post-secondary education. When Charles Dickens wrote (1859), it was the best of times, it was the worst of times... it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of despair, it is unlikely he was thinking about AAPIs in 21st century US. Yet, this paradoxical statement explains the context in which concerned US postsecondary educators and policymakers now find themselves. There is need to seek greater voice and visibility for AAPIs in US higher education. The racial stereotype of AAPIs as model minorities who achieve universal and unparalleled academic and career success continues in the minds of US higher education leaders, creating misconceptions of AAPIs and dismissal of their needs and interests, which some believe may be symbolic of an even larger systemic racial exclusion. (Paraphrased from Museus, S. D. (2013), p.1).

EWC Distinguished Alumni Awards

The Distinguished Alumni Award recognizes outstanding accomplishments, including significant contributions to the promotion of better relations and understanding among the countries of East and West through activities of cultural and technical interchange; significant achievement in one’s career; and continuing support of the goals of the Center. The award was established and endowed by Dr. Dai Ho Chun, former Director of the East-West Center’s Institute for Technical Interchange.

The recipients receiving the 2014 Distinguished Alumni Award are:

Hiromitsu Miyagi

Has rendered outstanding contributions to promote and implement the EWCA Okinawa Chapter as the chapter’s former president and devoted executive officer for fifty years. As the former vice-governor of Okinawa Prefecture and a business leader, he has contributed greatly to Okinawa’s development and has received many meritorious awards for his role in economic improvement. He was decorated by his Majesty the Emperor of Japan for his distinguished service to society and was awarded the Testimonial of Commendation by the governor of the Okinawa Prefecture for his service in the field of administrative affairs, an award bestowed to those who make great contributions to the development of Okinawa.

Puongpun and Thanh-Lo Sananikone

Met as EWC students in the 1960s and have continued to further the mission of the Center through their decades of ardent involvement and support. Puongpun has held significant positions in international businesses including the Asian Development Bank, Louis Berger International, Hawaiian Agronomics International and PacMar, Inc. He was the first EWC alumnus to be elected as chairman of the East-West Center Board of Governors, and he has also held leadership positions on the East-West Center Association Executive Board and East-West Center Foundation. Thanh-Lo is a recognized leader in the business community and received the 2003 Minority Small Business Advocate of the Year award from the U.S. Small Business Administration. She has built bridges for economic development in Pacific and Southeast Asian countries and is Hawaii’s unofficial ambassador to Vietnam. An active leader in the East-West Center community, she has been involved in the EWC Alumni Association, the Friends of the EWC, the Hawaii Chapter of EWCA, and the EWCA Development Committee.

EWCA Outstanding Volunteer Awards

This award recognizes outstanding alumni volunteers who have provided significant contributions to the programs and activities of the East-West Center Association and recognizes their selfless service. The awardees lead by example, demonstrating the qualities that bring out the best in others.

The recipients receiving the 2014 Outstanding Volunteer Award are:

Sumi Makey

is well-known to many EWC alumni from her years as the Center’s Dean of Students and Open Grants. Since her retirement from the Center, she has served as a volunteer in numerous committees and has worked tirelessly to help raise funds to ensure the Center’s future. She is a vital member of the EWCA Endowment Committee and has also established a scholarship in her name to benefit Center degree fellows.

Bob Nakasone

is recognized for his many years of volunteer support in building links between the EWC and the Okinawa community. He is a founding member of the Worldwide Uchinanchu Business Association (WUB) and helped create the Obuchi Okinawa Education and Research Program which promotes scholarships, faculty/research exchanges, and business seminars and internships between Okinawa and the U.S. The program, supported jointly by the East-West Center and the Japan Foundation, serves as an important link between Okinawa and the United States and as a means to help advance Okinawa’s future. Most recently he has been providing volunteer support as a valued adviser in preparation for the EWC/EWCA International Conference in Okinawa.

Larry Smith

has provided outstanding service and support to the Center by contributing to the development of educational programs for EWC students. He has served as an active member of the Friends of the EWC, including two years as its president, and is currently the co-chair of the EWCA Endowment Committee, which raises funds for student scholarships as a legacy to help future generations of students share the EWC experience.

EWCA Outstanding Chapter Award

This award recognizes outstanding East-West Center Association (EWCA) chapters that have provided significant contributions to the goals and programs of the EWCA, including an active and committed membership, activities which broaden the outreach of the Center into local communities, and programs which benefit and interest the local alumni.

The recipient receiving the 2014 Outstanding Chapter Award is:

Lahore, Pakistan Chapter

The Lahore Chapter strives to promote community awareness of socio-economic issues and has organized numerous educational and social activities in the community such as providing clean drinking water as well as distributing textbooks and related materials to children from marginalized families. The Lahore Chapter’s leader, Arfa Zehra recently received the Lifetime Achievement Award at Pakistan’s Teacher’s National Conference.

The East-West Center promotes better relations and understanding among the people and nations of the United States, Asia and the Pacific through cooperative study, research and dialogue. Established by the US Congress in 1960, the Center serves as a resource for information and analysis on critical issues of common concern, bringing people together to exchange views, build expertise and develop policy options.

Officially known as the Center for Cultural and Technical Interchange between East and West, the Center is a US-based institution for public diplomacy with international governance, staffing, students and participants.

The Center is an independent, public, nonprofit organization with funding from the US government, and additional support provided by private agencies, individuals, foundations, corporations and governments in the region.

The Center’s 21-acre Honolulu campus, adjacent to the University of Hawai‘i at Mānoa, is located midway between Asia and the US mainland and features research, residential and international conference facilities. The Center’s Washington, D.C. office focuses on preparing the United States for an era of growing Asia Pacific prominence.
