

Rural Livelihoods and Protected Landscapes: Co-management in the Wetlands and Forests of Bangladesh

Rural Livelihoods and Protected Landscapes: Co-management in the Wetlands and Forests of Bangladesh

March, 2011

USAID Contract No EPP-I-00-06-00007-00

Edited by:

Jefferson Fox

M. G. Mustafa

Shimona A. Quazi

Wendy B. Miles

Eric J. Cunningham

Marla Chassels

INTEGRATED PROTECTED AREA CO-MANAGEMENT IN BANGLADESH

Submitted to:

USAID/Bangladesh

This book is a product of the USAID funded Integrated Protected Area Co-Management Project implemented under the management of IRG. The book was prepared under the technical leadership of the East-West Center and the WorldFish Center and is available at the East-West Center, Honolulu, Hawaii.

Department of Fisheries

NISHORGO NETWORK

Table of Contents

Chapter 1	Introduction: Tailoring Collaborative Conservation in Bangladesh Eric John Cunningham, Marla Chassels, Jefferson Fox, Md Golam Mustafa	1
Chapter 2	Socio-economic Benefits of Co-management for Resource User Groups in Alua Beel Masud Ara Momi	16
Chapter 3	Fish-market Chain and Fishers' Incomes in Sherpur District, Bangladesh Md. Aminul Haque	33
Chapter 4	Fisher Livelihoods in the Sundarbans Khalekuzzaman Sarker	47
Chapter 5	Co-management Participation, Livelihood, and Status among Fishers in Baikka Beel, Bangladesh. Bishwajit Kumar Dev	66
Chapter 6	People's Perceptions of Environmental Pollution in Mokosh Beel, Bangladesh Afrin Akter	85
Chapter 7	Non-timber Forest Products and Livelihoods in the Sundarbans Fatima Tuz Zohora	99
Chapter 8	Deforestation and Forest Conservation in a Tanchangya Community Md. Abdur Rahman	118
Chapter 9	Livelihoods of Forest-dependent People in Kaptai National Park Md. Zahidur Rahman Miah	138
Chapter 10	People's Livelihoods and Involvement in Co-management of Madhupur National Park, Bangladesh Rokeya Begum	156
Chapter 11	Impacts of Co-management Activities on Livelihoods in Satchari National Park Mahmudah Roksen Sultana.	171
Chapter 12	Perceptions of Climate Change in Kaptai National Park Suriya Ferdous	186